My IxDF Journey: Exploring Emotional Design

Interaction Design Foundation, IxDF, My IxDF Learning Experience / By Viktoriya Mikhaylova

As someone passionate about creating user-centered designs, my experience with the Interaction Design Foundation (IxDF) has been transformative. One of the standout moments in my design career was completing the course Emotional Design – How to Make Products People Will Love. Earning the certificate from this course not only deepened my understanding of design but ...

The screenshot shows the IxDF website homepage. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links: "Join our community?", "For companies", "Frequently asked questions", and "Contact". Below this is a secondary navigation bar with links: "UX Courses", "Master Classes", "Community", "Literature", "Blog", "Q", "Log in", and a "Join our community" button. The main header features a large image of a woman looking at a screen, with the text "Learn Design Thinking" and "Online UX design courses by experts, with industry-recognized certificates". A blue button says "Learn Design: From Passion to Paycheck >". Below this is a small video player with the title "Watch: Why is UX design important to your career?". The section below features three testimonials: a Trustpilot rating of 4.8 with 2,303 reviews, a quote from Don Norman, and a quote from Forbes. The main content area is titled "Online UX Design Courses for Beginners and Professionals" and describes the platform's offerings. At the bottom, there are four course thumbnails: "How to Create Intuitive Products by Imitating Musicality", "Get Your Product Used: Adoption and Appropriation", "Agile Methods for UX Design", and "Perception and Memory in HCI and UX".

What is IxDF (Interaction Design Foundation)?

Interaction Design Foundation, IxDF, My IxDF Learning Experience / By Viktoriya Mikhaylova

The Interaction Design Foundation (IxDF) is an online educational platform dedicated to providing high-quality, affordable, and accessible UX design and interaction design courses. Founded in 2002, IxDF has become one of the world's largest and most respected online communities for design professionals, enthusiasts, and students. Its mission is to empower designers by offering a wealth ...
